

Witness for Defense Raps Axis Sally

By KARL R. BAUMAN

Washington, Feb. 18 — (AP) — A defense witness shouted from the stand today that "Axis Sally" threatened Americans in a German prison camp in 1944.

The witness, Gunnar Drangsholt, a Northwestern University student, has been called as a government witness but was not put on the stand by the prosecutors.

James J. Laughlin, chief defense attorney, put Drangsholt on the stand to ask whether Mildred E. (Axis Sally) Gillars, 46, told him she represented the Red Cross. Miss Gillars is on trial on treason charges.

The witness replied she told him she did not claim to represent the Red Cross. Then he went on talking over shouted objections from Laughlin.

Drangsholt said Miss Gillars told him she was an American citizen, that she was on the right side and that she was being paid by the German government for her services.

Drangsholt said he asked her if she didn't think it strange that "an American citizen you can float around Germany while we are locked up."

When she left, Drangsholt testified, Americans imprisoned at Stalag 2-B prison camp shouted defiance.

Drangsholt said Miss Gillars called the prisoners the "most ungrateful Americans" she had encountered and told them they would regret their treatment of her.

"She threatened us as she left, that American citizen, that woman right there," Drangsholt said.

He looked at the defendant and glowered.

By this time, Laughlin and Drangsholt were shouting at each other and it took the best efforts of Judge Edward M. Curran to quiet them.

Under sharp questioning Drangsholt said he had told Laughlin Miss Gillars did not represent the Red Cross, but that he had not told the attorney that was the extent of his conversation with her.

Canadian Robber Is 'Unruffled'

White Plains, N. Y., Feb. 18 — (AP) — An unruffled 28-year-old Canadian who allegedly used society manners to lure his victims into his home, was brought here today from Cleveland to face charges of looting wealthy Worcester county homes.

Gordon Graham Dennis, the dapper Canadian, who had been hunted for two years, said these things came to light about him at once.

Police said he had $1,400 in cash and $18,000 worth of unset diamonds in his possession.

They reported also that he had in his wallet a list of 22 top movie stars and their secret addresses as a "list of prospects."

At a Beverly Hills, Calif., apartment which he gave as his home address, authorities found $100,000 worth of jewelry and furs valued at $20,000.

Montreal authorities, describing him as one of the greatest burglars of all time, said he was wanted for $150,000 in thefts.

Detective Lt. Maurice Kelly of New Rochelle, N. Y., who brought Dennis here from Cleveland, said the suspect had admitted numerous robberies from wealthy homes in suburban Westchester county.

"He's cooperating 100 per cent," a spokesman for the Westchester district attorney's office said.

Dennis was being questioned at the district attorney's office. Later he probably will be arranged at New Rochelle on felonious assault and burglary charges, police said.

Kelly explained that Dennis had been hunting the Canadian since a Rochelle man was wounded by an assailant Sept. 20, 1946.

The police lieutenant said these names of movie stars were included on the list found in Dennis' pocket: Jack Benny, Bette Davis, Eddie Cantor, Edgar Bergen, Dorothy Lamour, Harold Lloyd, Mary Pickford, William Powell, Kay Francis and "Olivia de—," presumably Olivia de Havilland.

Universalist Church Ends 4-Day Session

Cleveland, Feb. 17 — (AP) — Francis Cardinal Spellman's statement that "rebellion to tyrants is obedience to God" is interesting because it would comfort surviving Republicans in Franco Spain, say heads of the Universalist Church of America.

The superintendents' council of the Universalist Church of America, attended by 19 superintendents, each a state head of the denomination, concludes a four-day quarterly meeting here today.

Last night the council passed the following resolution:

"The apparent confession of Cardinal Mindszenty to illegal acts in Hungary has brought the interesting declaration from Francis Cardinal Spellman in New York that 'rebellion to tyrants is obedience to God.'"

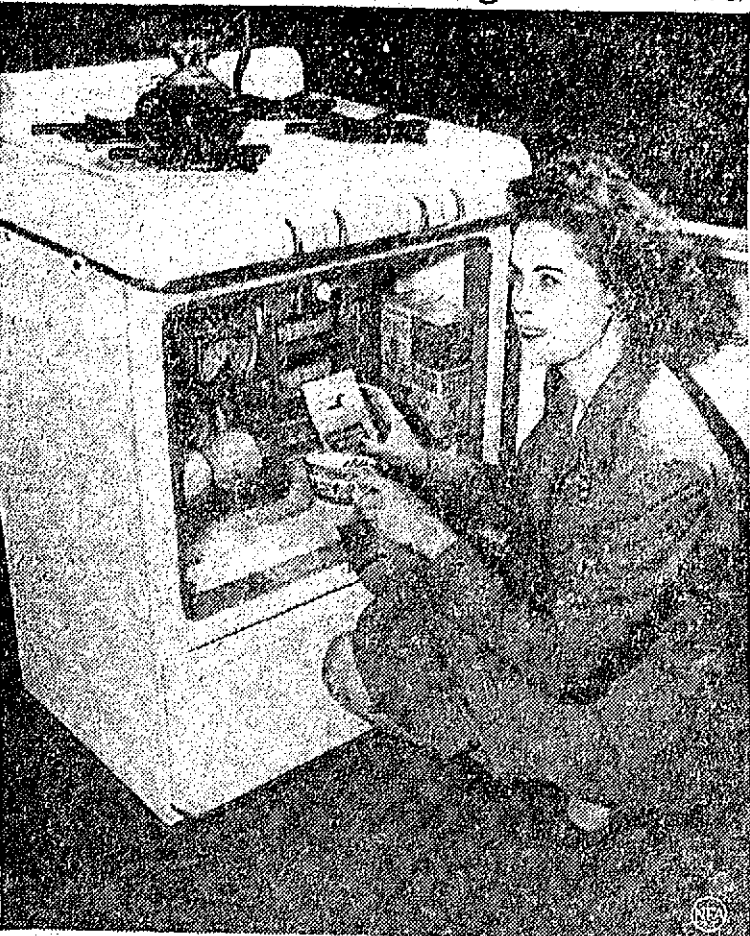

"We find this interesting because such a quotation from Cardinal Spellman would have been great comfort to Democrats in Spain had it during his recent visit with Franco."

"It might have brought a certain amount of consolation to those excommunicated survivors of Spanish Republicans executed by Franco's regime."

After the regular business meeting the program study on: "Little Men and Little Women of China" was conducted by the Missionary chairman, Mrs. C. E. Wagner.

A written quiz on China was a very provocative and informative part of the meeting.

A message on: "Why Call the Children of China Little Men and Little Women?" was given by the leader as a fitting climax to the program.

Mrs. J. L. Porter, program chairman, presented Mrs. Sam Vick Scott in a talk on "How to Match Your Flowers with Your Wall List" and Mrs. James V. McMahon who gave the Garden Guide for February.

Miss Jessie Loomis from Hot Springs attended the meeting and Miss Elizabeth Steed was a very welcome guest.

Shooting in Red Zone Brings Tension

By THOMAS A. REEDY

Berlin, Feb. 18 — (AP) — Soviet-controlled German police killed another German while tightening their blockade within a blockade, and the incident heightened tension today between Communists and their foes, who charged the shooting was "murder."

Sporadic fist fights were reported on subway and elevated trains between German passengers and Communist-controlled police, who sought to search and seize their belongings. The Communists sentenced to three months in prison a woman charged with "insulting" one of these policemen.

A German man and a 14-year-old girl, innocent bystanders, were wounded in another sector border incident. The scrape occurred when a vegetable dealer missed the blockade halt signal of the Soviet-controlled police. The police fired four shots at the truck. They missed the driver but hit the bystanders. The truck escaped into the American sector.

Meanwhile, rumors of a new Soviet zone currency reform sent the Russian-sponsored eastern market tumbling on German money markets, despite Russian denial that any change is impending.

Against this background, the western German constitution committee advised Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the American military governor, that it has completed drafting a basic law to serve for a democratically governed Germany of the future.

Clay said the target date of May 1 for establishment of the west German government "now looks pretty good."

Reports from east Germany were that the Soviets, who violently oppose the creation of a west German government, will have a German constitution of their own whipped together by March, to be presented as a charter for all Germany. The Russians refuse to recognize the division of Germany.

Laying an Egg Changes Name of Parrots

Brighton, Eng., Feb. 17 — (AP) — Remember Harry the Parrot, who laid an egg last month? Well, Robert, the 125-year-old Macaw, also has laid an egg.

Robert was acquired 15 months ago by Alan Williams, general manager of the Brighton aquarium. The bird dealer threw in a pedigree attesting that Robert was a century and a quarter old and male.

Harry the parrot, masqueraded as a boy bird for 20 years before he laid his egg Jan. 21. Harry's name is now Harriet. Robert is now Roberta.

Regulate Bargaining Asks NAM

Washington, Feb. 18 — (AP) — The National Association of Manufacturers told congress today the best way to avert "national emergency" strikes is to regulate industry-wide bargaining.

"Practically without exception the instances in which the nation has been confronted with these emergencies have been those involving numerous degrees of industry-wide bargaining," said Ira Mosher, a member of NAM's executive committee.

He did not go into detail on additional regulation.

Mosher outlined the NAM views to the senate labor committee which is studying an administration bill to repeal the Taft-Hartley labor law and replace it with a modified Wagner act.

He followed a spokesman for the trucking industry who said the Taft-Hartley law is needed to protect cities against motor transport the ups, and a retail officials who feared that it should be kept to give employers an even break in a contest for the "loyalty" of workers.

Mosher III into the administration measure. He told the committee:

"You cannot fail to see that under such a law employees and the general public, as well as employers, lose the protection against abusive union practices that they have enjoyed for the last 19 months."

As for the present law, Mosher said: "Where is the evidence of hardship or unfairness? I have looked for it. I have asked my friends in labor. I have not been able to learn how the Taft-Hartley law has hurt labor."

Mosher suggested a change in the Taft-Hartley law provision which lets the government get 80-day injunctions against strikes which imperil the national health or safety.

"Its weakness may be due largely to the fact that the injunction is for a definite period, thus permitting the parties to gauge the 'profit and loss' involved if agreement is not reached within the 80-day period," he said.

Mosher also called on the committee to keep the Taft-Hartley law's ban on the closed shop, under which employers can hire only union members.

Edgar S. Idol, general counsel of American Trucking associations, told the senate labor committee that "our labor is organized to a point where the teamsters union, by a strike, close down motor transportation in any metropolitan area."

He said the present labor law "works." He gave instances.

For example, Idol said that formerly in New York City, Local 807 of the AFL teamsters union "constantly sidetracked the employer bargaining group and ordered a city-wide strike, simultaneously making favorable agreements with individual employers who were willing to sacrifice their longterm interests."

14 Entries for Rich Santa Anita Derby Today

Arundia, Calif., Feb. 19 — (AP) — The Santa Anita derby, one of the nation's two extravaganzas for three-year-olds still carrying an added purse of $100,000, comes off today with 14 colts named to race for the $94,700 top money.

Matching the ancient Kentucky Derby in richness if not in tradition, the attraction figured to draw around 60,000 observers to Santa Anita park.

The added gross purse of $141,800 and the winner's net prize — provided all 14 colts went post ward—was the highest in the 12-year old history of the Santa Anita derby.

Named for the mile and one eighth special, in post position order, are:

1. Old Rockport; 2. Ocean Drive; 3. Bulero; 4. Hayseed; 5. So La Cl; 6. Stone Age; 7. Black Fox II; 8. Admiral Lee; 9. Count Victor; 10. Pedigree II; Audacious Mar; 12. Duplicate; 13. Olympia; 14. Swap Out.

Big favorite in the field is the dual entry of Fred W. Hooper, Olympia and Ocean Drive.

Savold Ready If Louis Will Post the 'Gate'

New York, Feb. 19 — (UP) — Lee Savold will accept a spring "challengers' match" with Ezzard Charles if Joe Louis will post $50,000 to guarantee a June time defense against the war hero.

Louis had set next Monday as the deadline before which blond Savold of Peterson, N. J., had to accept a challengers' fight with brown-skinned Charles of Cincinnati or be considered out of title competition.

Announcing Savold's conditional acceptance of the Charles match, Manager Bill Daly said, "we have beaten Louis' deadline with our acceptance, and we have placed the responsibility for the challengers' match entirely upon the champion's shoulders."

Believes America's Real Danger Lies in Neglect of Duty by Its Own Citizens

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

General Omar N. Bradley, United States army chief of staff and one of the outstanding commanders in World War II, preaches a powerful sermon on the dangers of "delinquent citizenship" today in an article in Collier's weekly.

As a matter of fact, this ordinarily quiet-spoken soldier rolls up his sleeves and administers a sound drubbing to shirkers. The burden of his rebuke is that we Americans can lose the battle against stateism if we fail to make our contribution to the welfare of the home, the school, the church and the community. That means everybody—not just the other fellow, but you and me.

The general is dealing with such a vital truth, in such a forceful manner that this column welcomes the opportunity to report his views. He imparts the feeling that it's high time for us to take the burden of the forces of evil may be long and that "ideas are as important as the atom bomb."

He sums it up bluntly like this: "Our danger lies not so much in a fifth column whose enmity is avowed. It lies in a first column of well-meaning American citizens x x x who are 100 percent Americans in their daily protestations and ten percent citizens in their daily routine of neglect."

General Bradley assesses the faults of the younger generation against the elders. The failure of the elders to meet the demands of citizenship is responsible, he believes, for "political immaturity," economic ignorance, philosophical indifference and spiritual insolvency" of many American youth.

That strikes home to those of us who have children just arriving at maturity. It seems to me that the younger generation is reaching for ideas as youth never has before. Unhappily that search is being conducted in the "atmosphere which follows any grant war and which is especially bad these days as the result of the division of mankind into two hostile ideological blocs."

Small wonder Bradley reports that psychologists tell him the post-war generation is undisciplined, jealously aware of rights but not of responsibilities, mercenary and antagonistic to authority. Clearly this is the time, as the general indicates, when the elders must turn to and help youth adjust itself.

My personal observation is that the younger generation is actively trying to find its feet. I have two young folk of my own and am placing their problems before me.

McClellan Backs Government Aid to Schools

Washington, Feb. 17 — (AP) — Senator McClellan of Arkansas has joined other lawmakers in approving a proposal that the federal government shoulder cost of some overburdened school districts.

McClellan has backed the Magnuson bill which would appropriate $15,000,000 for this purpose.

Sponsor of the bill, Senator Magnuson (D-Wash.) said today about 400 school districts in 39 states Alaska and the District of Columbia have become overburdened because of increased federal activities. These include army posts, construction of dams and reclamation projects.

Senator Magnuson said Arkansas has about 14 such school districts.

A small turkey with an average live weight of less than 10 pounds is called the Beltsville Bird and was first developed in 1940.

Many of those problems relate to the question of where our duties lie as citizens. And how much greater are the problems of the youths who have been away to war and have a new world.

"At a time when peoples throughout the world are being courted by an aggressive stateism that would have them abdicate their personal share in government and entrust their welfare to rule by clique, the American people must put their faith in not less — but more — personal responsibility in the affairs of their community and nation. x x x

"A democracy such as ours cannot be defeated in this struggle; it can only lose by default."

GOODS + DEMAND + ADVERTISING

Postwar America has both the Goods and Consumer Demand—but only you, Mr. Merchant, can say whether your Advertising has kept pace with your Business.

If you are an average American Merchant it HAS NOT.

National Retail Dry Goods Association Statistics show that in percentage of total sales U. S. Department and Specialty Stores are spending for newspaper advertising — backbone of the retail dry goods trade — in the postwar period only about half what they spent before the war.

Most of your fixed costs have kept pace, percentage-wise, with the postwar volume of business.

But Advertising — the great expeditor of sales — is a voluntary matter with each Merchant. High-level business will not be maintained indefinitely with low level Advertising.

Before planning your 1949 Advertising budget look over the following 12-year figures of the National Retail Dry Goods Association (Controllers' Congress 1946 Departmental Merchandising and Operating Results of Department Stores and Specialty Stores):

Israeli Pioneers Dance

While carving a home in Northern Israel, Jewish settlers still find time to dance. This dance, at the new settlement of Beth Haarava, lasted all night. DOROTHY DIX Widows' Precious Possession

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a woman 56 years old, in good health. A few months ago my husband died. We were very fond of each other. Knowing that he would live long, he advised me to sell my home and go to live with my married son, but I just can't do it. I am afraid he and his wife would get tired of me. I have a small rooming house—nine rooms—and if I can keep it going, I would like to do so, as I have a lot of time on my hands.

I feel that if I had something to look forward to every day that would be happier for I want to be independent. What is your advice?

MRS. E. E. Answer: My earnest advice to every woman who is left a widow is to keep her home. It is her most precious possession, she has built it. Keep to yourself. Don't let your children persuade you to come and live with them. Keep your money, whether it is a few dollars or a large sum, in your own hands. Be a reliable banker for yourself. Instead of Cousin Jim or Uncle Sam who probably would mean to take all your money, you can keep it safe.

Keep busy. The only antidote for grief is to keep so busy that you will not have time to think of your sorrow. You will not get your pillow with your tears at night if you have worked so hard that you will fall asleep through sheer exhaustion as soon as you have touched your bed.

It is sweet and dear of your children to ask you to come, and make your home with them now that your husband has gone. They think you will be so lonely, and they are so sorry for you, and they feel that it will be such a comfort to you to sell the old home and not have to fold hands and be taken care of.

Don't do it. Thank your children for their kind thought, but don't become a pensioner on them if it is possible to avoid it. Don't go away unless it is the last resort of desperation.

Keep your own home. Live your own life. Find some work to do that will keep you on your toes, keeping a rooming house—like the one you have—where something interesting and exciting and agreeable is happening every day, and you will do more to keep you young and happy than sponging on your children.

WIDOWED DAUGHTER Answer: I am afraid not, for family brawls seem to be a chronic disease in many households, and I have never known a husband and wife who were always in their favorite home apart of sympathy with each other. The husband and wife call for no sympathy, because they know that they accomplish nothing by reviling and insulting each other. Either one of them could stop it if they would. But it is hard on the poor children who are reared in an atmosphere of strife and whose mind and bodies are often wrecked by the scenes they are forced to endure.

THE STORY: John Henry and his wife, Gayner, vacationing at a beach resort, witness the death of a young man named Homer. Later the Conover's cottage, occupied by Faye Jordan, due to a conversation mixup, and their names are searched when it is found that the searchers don't find a girl which Anglin slipped into Faye's pocket before he died. Faye is taken to a gambling racket to have where he is drugged.

Meanwhile, Sin found herself in a bad fix with Sagron Robottom. Robottom, who frightens her not to "interfere," Robottom takes her away from Robottom to his cottage.

Robottom himself across the bed, Sin still panting with fright. The searchers don't find a girl which Anglin slipped into Faye's pocket before he died. Faye is taken to a gambling racket to have where he is drugged.

Dear Dorothy Dix: We are four girls in our teens and we go to night clubs and dance. We have come home we sit out in front of the house and talk to our boy friends until three o'clock. This makes our neighbors give us a terrible reputation and they send our mothers for letting us do it. But don't you think it is all right for us to act this way as long as we know we are nice?

Answer: Well, girls, it isn't enough to be nice. You have to act nice, and certainly no nice girl would sit out in the street until three o'clock in the morning, talking with some lad. Her heart may be pure, but her reputation is bedraggled, and we judge a girl by what she does, not by what she says.

Nothing is more pitiful than to see little teenage girls, too young and ignorant of the world to know what they are doing, throw their caps over the windmill. They think it is smart and daring to show how sophisticated they are, and they do not know that the reputations they are building up will be a disgrace to them as long as they live.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a girl of 12 with a terrible problem that I do not know how to solve. My mother and father are always fighting, so we hardly ever have a minute's peace at home. Daddy curses and Mama cries and I am so unhappy that I am thinking of running away.

Is there any way that I can stop them? Answer: I am afraid not, for family brawls seem to be a chronic disease in many households, and I have never known a husband and wife who were always in their favorite home apart of sympathy with each other. The husband and wife call for no sympathy, because they know that they accomplish nothing by reviling and insulting each other. Either one of them could stop it if they would. erous mouth. The smile aborted. It was Sagron Robottom, his bronze face stern, sauntering toward her from the pool. Sin whirled and fled. "Mrs. Conover!" Robottom called again.

"She rushed into the pool and into the lobby. Gayner had gone past his registration desk without pausing and now was going down the front stairs and crashing down driveway. His walk was brisk and purposeful.

"You look like you're in a hurry," Thehma Loomis said in her commanding voice as the two women dodged around each other at the front entrance.

"Thanks," Sin said automatically, and kept going. Mr. Tim was just getting out of the elevator. He looked at Sin, then at Thehma, and a tight smile and don't let a poor Vernon Loomis fool you. The glass door opened for her.

Gayner's bronze face was still in sight through the glass. It was about 50 yards to the pool. This had been cut to 25 by the pool attendant, a man in a white shirt and dark trousers, who had been the conservator of a pool while Gayner looked up and met the peaceful smile. Then he darted across and went hurriedly down the hill toward the center of town.

Near the corner of Chubb's Street, a clock tower from the Las Dunas, Gayner had seemed to loom and disappeared from sight. Sin's pulse quickened and she made herself aware of the fact that the conservator of a pool while Gayner looked up and met the peaceful smile. Gentleman Jewel Thief Talks Freely

New Rochelle, N. Y., Feb. 19.—Tall, suave, Gerard G. Dennis, described by authorities as one of the greatest jewelry burglars in record, said to have admitted Hollywood notables were his next intended victims.

The 28-year-old Canadian is suspected of looting wealthy homes on the East coast, West Coast and in Canada of $800,000 in jewels and furs.

He was arraigned here yesterday on charges of first-degree burglary and felonious assault, and held without bail for grand jury action.

District Attorney George M. Fenelli, of Westchester county, said Dennis told him he had been planning his next forays at homes of various screen figures, including:

Jack Benny, Bette Davis, Eddie Cantor, Edgar Bergen, Olivia de Havilland, Dorothy Lamour, Harold Lloyd, Mary Pickford, William Powell, and other film stars and celebrities.

Dennis was arrested in Cleveland Wednesday with $18,000 in uncut diamonds and $1,400 in cash in his possession. He was returned here yesterday.

The stocky, nattily dressed Dennis was described by Fenelli as "very frank" about his exploits, and "polished, sympathetic and regretful."

Fenelli said Dennis readily admitted burglarizing 16 Westchester county homes of $140,000 in jewels and furs, and took officers on a tour, pointing out as many of the places as he could remember.

No statement was obtained from Dennis concerning recent alleged thefts of $250,000 in the Beverly Hills, Calif., area, and $170,000 in robberies in Canada.

In a Beverly Hills apartment, which Dennis gave as his address, police Thursday night said they found behind heavily reinforced doors a trunk containing rubies, diamonds, pearls, loose gold, silver and platinum valued at $199,000.

Methods of returning the misadventures here to the owner, remains a puzzle, as the stone cannot be identified since rings and metal settings had been removed.

Authorities said all the stones were of C-cut, and Dennis had made extensive studies of jewelry before starting his second-story career.

Kansas Ban on Liquor Nearing End

Topeka, Kan., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Kansas' 69-year-old ban against intoxicating liquor was near an end today.

A control bill was passed 97-21 by the house late yesterday and sent back to the senate for consideration of amendments.

The count showed 75 Republicans and 22 Democrats approving the bill with 18 Republicans and 6 Democrats voting against it.

Only one of the amendments was viewed as likely to meet with any serious objection from the senate when it reconvenes Monday.

This alteration would give counties and cities an approximate $1,500,000 annual slice of liquor revenues from gallonage taxes which otherwise would have gone into the state's general fund.

Except for this, administration forces succeeded in overcoming every other attempt to alter sections of the regulatory measure.

The bill, as it now stands, calls for package sales only through privately owned stores. Its local option revisions have been retained. Sale by the drink is barred.

Dry and Dull

Here's a gadget that has both advantages and disadvantages. From a woman's point of view, it's a home hair dryer, which Irene Schoering is trying out in Chicago. The sock-like dryer is supposed to dry hair completely in 10 to 30 minutes—but there'll be no one for gals to gossip with.

Fair Enough

In both his sermon and his statement on the ordeal of Cardinal Mindszenty, Cardinal Spellman referred to phases of the Communist breach in the United States which were exposed long ago. Although a small group of journalists and some pamphleters did good work, the House Committee on Un-American Activities, first under Martin Dies and most recently under J. Parnell Thomas, amassed a great library of proof. An earlier committee under Samuel Dickstein, of New York, ignored the communist conspiracy almost entirely and concentrated on the Nazi agent and Nazi sympathizers. The principal Nazi agent, Fritz Kuhn, was fetched by Republican District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey on a charge of forgery thanks largely to Arthur F. Robertson, an unsung investigator who also did fine work in convicting George Scallies and other union racketeers.

Unlike Dickstein, who seemed to underestimate the Communist peril, Chairmen Dies and Thomas impartially went after both Nazi-Fascists and Communists. After we got into the war, the Nazis and Fascists were pretty well in the hands of the military intelligence and "security" agencies and the effective use of the committee's files. Many Americans who continued to warn of the treachery of the gallant ally of Moscow were shamefully abused as pro-Nazi-Fascists during this phase.

I was at all times an opponent of the Communists to the extent that the weapon of information and interpretation, through publicity, could be used against them. I smelled them in the American Newspaper Guild almost as soon as I learned of its existence. I felt the process of assumption which was the way in which Ferdinand Pecora, now a justice of the New York Supreme court, was taken into and made president of a similar guild called the National Lawyers Guild. Neither of us ever applied for membership. We discussed these guilds and found that we were in. Seeing no immediate reason to object, we paid dues and acted as members.

Judge Pecora got out of the lawyers' guild because the Communist paper guild because the Communists were in control. We knew who they were. But when he named them we were called Red-baiters. Being a new dealer, the judge was given a clean bill of health by the Communist press of the New York Times, known as PM on which Marshall Field, of Chicago, spent millions of dollars much of which otherwise would have gone into the treasury as taxes. I got the works but I did not join. I was not a Communist. In his sermon, Cardinal Spellman said: "How long are we going to allow these fanatical fanatics to drug us with their propaganda and our own apathy? When will the American government, the American public, the leaders in all phases of American life, religious, educational, political, labor, industrial, communal, yes and in our own homes, when will all free men raise their voices as one and cry out against and work against satan-inspired Communist crimes?"

In his statement he said, "warn the Communist cell removed from within our own government—let America herself be safe from conquest by the 'religions' and the 'educational' phases referred to in the sermon, and coming to the 'political.' I recall that it was Franklin D. Roosevelt who, by design, advised the Communist cells to the government. He did this impudently and mischievously and knowing full well what the Communist program was and all about the brutal cynicism and Godless nastiness of Communism.

His wife was his partner in this her own personal attitude toward Communism. . . to Communists. . . and her own personal attitude toward religion is indicative. She is a selfish person who has actively associated with Communists from 1935 down to this time and actively helped Communists in specific instances. She has written that the greatest influence that was exerted on her during her most impressive years of girlhood, next to the influence of her father who was a drunkard, was the influence of the custody of his children, as exerted by Mlle. Souvestre, an atheist from the Paris of 1870, when the commune took over. And, finally, while Cardinal Mindszenty was in his agony, Eleanor Roosevelt gratuitously published the unsupported charge of an anonymous informant that Cardinal Mindszenty was a notorious anti-Semite. This is the insensitive, the automatic accusation of all Communists against all anti-Communists and it comes gracefully from this woman who, by concealing the name of her authority and by in effecting no disagreement with the charge, becomes an accuser herself.

On that point, Rabbi Benjamin Schultz, the director of the American Jewish League against Communism, who has suffered greatly for his high position, said: "I am aware of the Red propaganda that the cardinal is anti-Semitic. This is false. Every foe of communism will be similarly accused. That is the old Stalin trick."

Rabbi Schultz said Cardinal Mindszenty hid many Jews in his cellar to save them from the Nazis when Hitler took over Hungary.

As to that phase of American life called labor, which Cardinal Spellman calls upon us to fight, Communism now, the fact unfortunately is that the most conspicuous Catholic in the C.I.O., President Philip Murray, collaborated with the Communist Party for ten years and joined in the abuse of better Americans who denounced them. Murray suffers from great guilt in helping Communists or suffering from the guilt of Communism. He deplores the Communists. Specifically, Paul this is only one instance. Murray wrote a tract defending Harry Bridges and trying to discredit Americans who held Bridges to be a Communist.

"Yes, and in entertainment," Cardinal Spellman said, "a powerful magnate of Hollywood who is an intimate friend of Cardinal Spellman, who this last year displaced one of the bravest men of the movie industry, a Catholic who sacrificed his whole career to go to Washington and testify against the Hollywood Communists before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, 'sincerely assured the Communists that the sensation would be forgotten. Thereafter, Hollywood could carry on as before."

He soon moved into the office of the patriotic Catholic witness who staked his career on his patriotism and his religious abhorrence of communism in Hollywood—and lost.

Bobcats Down Texarkana 45 to 39

Hope's Bobcats journeyed to Texarkana last night and almost came home with a double win. The Senators, playing without the services of their center, James McGargo, won 45 to 39 while a last minute field goal downed the local juniors 17 to 10.

The senior game was marred with fouls—the referee calling some 48 personal fouls and the game ended three regulars from each team were on the sidelines.

With Sutton and Hockett doing most of the throwing Hope held a half-time lead of 24 to 20. At the end of the third period the Bobcats held a 35 to 30 edge.

Easy was high point man of the game with 20 followed by Hockett and Sutton of Hope with 12 and 10 respectively. McLeod and Nix looped in 6. Bruner, Mitchell, Bullock and Middlebrooks played stellar ball for the Bobcats.

Hope's juniors were edged by a fluke field goal in the last few seconds. Neal was high point for the Kittens with 5.

Plans are under way for the construction of an elevated, two-way belt conveyor from Lorain, O., to Lake Erie, to a point on the Ohio River near East Liverpool, O., a distance of 130 miles. This is a typical transfer point, where northbound coal and southbound iron ore go from one of 172 separate "flights," or stages, to another
